_I led the fight against extending term limits without a referendum. I felt that voters should have had a say, just as they did in 1993 and 1996. I introduced a bill before the Mayor's announcement, to extend term limits only by referendum. No one elected official should reign over the will of the electorate and while I am not a fan of term limits, I believed that the Mayor's utter usurpation of power and the shameful disregard of the outcome of two public referendums was a dark day in the political history of our city.

- 6. What is your position regarding managing pension fund investments and the regulation of pension intermediaries, particularly given recent events surrounding the issue at the state level?

  _____I have stated that I will not deal with intermediaries, only principals. I will only deal with licensed securities professionals. I would seek to ban all third party placement agents.
- 7. How would you utilize the Compttoller's auditing power to ensure that government agencies are efficiently delivering services, especially given fewer resources?

First, I would audit the office of the Comptroller. Second, I would use the new legislative authority to audit all outside contracts. I believe the comptroller's office should go beyond the ordinary financial audits and be involved in doing more management audits. For example, had the State Comptroller audited the State Water Commission from a management point of view the recent findings could have been found much sooner.
8. How would you maximize the power of the Comptroller's office to ensure the fiscal health and integrity of city spending?
21.05.00, Ox exty spenting.
As stated before, I would audit my office first to ensure it is running effectively and efficiently. Fiscal health and integrity must begin within the Comptrollers office before we go after other City Agencies. This is not to say or imply that there is no issue of integrity or question about the office currently under Bill Thompson's tenure. I would work closely with the legislature, both in the City and at the State level to ensure my office has the resources necessary to carry out the Comptrollers offices duties. I would also do a systematic review of all city contracts
9. Do you believe there needs to be improvements to the Comptroller's role and practices? How would you manage the position?
How would you manage the positions
I believe the comptroller should not only provide the prudent and sound stewardship over the city's pension funds, but also serve a more proactive role in the investigation and audit of public and private entities. The office should also collaborate, with input from the representatives of the five pension funds, to create objective criteria in the evaluation of contract awards. The office should also engage in financial literacy programs for the general public. I believe all these cumulative efforts will help bring about positive management changes to the office and engage the public to become a more active participant in the protection of the city's pension funds and also contribute to a deeper substantive understanding of the vital role the office plays in the lifeblood of the city.
10. What do you believe is the appropriate tole of the Comptroller's office in auditing the Department of Education?
I believe that the Comptroller's office should have complete audit power of the Department of Education. Since it is under Mayoral Control, the DOE is now considered a City agency and must adhere to all the rules and regulations as stated in the New York City Charter. It is only reasonable since part of the funding for our schools comes from City taxpayers. We must also ensure that all contracts within the DOE are executed effectively and efficiently and that taxpayers money is not being wasted.

pricing and the Ravitch Come funding, what do you think sl	the lessons learned from the debates surrounding congestion mission's recommendations to provide the MTA with long-term could be done to address the MTA's fiscal solvency issues and ensure the MTA are equitably distributed amongst all stakeholders?
I have taken the posit	ion of opposing congestion pricing and several of the Ravitch
Commission recommendation	ns. Duting the debate I proposed bringing back the commuter tax at 1%, which would have genera	ted approximately $1.4 billion per year. With that tevenue I recommended that we split th	c revenue 50/50, between the City and the MTA, giving the MTA a tecurring funding stream of $	700 million dollars.
12. What would you propose process?	to address some of the structural imbalances in the current budget
The fundamental proble	m with the city budget is that the current law mandates every penny carned must be spent from ye	ar to year. There is no provision for savings to be carried into the next fiscal year. I would stre	ngly advocate that the city lobby for state legislation designed to cteate a "rainy day" fund. It i	s fundamentally flawed to continue to have a budgetary scheme which does not allow for the	dexibility of diverting savings from one year for use in another. If the city had more flexibility in	the way money is allocated from year to year it would give awmakers a useful tool towar	ds addressing shortfalls and surpluses over a longer period of time.
<ol> <li>What is your position regalown future health cost and p</li> </ol>	arding the City's past practice of using surplus tax tevenues to pay ension obligations, and the decision not to do so this year?
A primary reason why th	e city decided not to pay down futute health care and pension obligations is that there simply	wasn't enough in revenues to do so. I was the sponsor of the Health Care Trust Fund and s	ccured $2.5 billion for this effort. This set aside was just one step addressing rising health care costs for municipal retirees. I believe hat it is essential in tevenue s	urplus years to set aside some amount for both obligations. Neither will recede nor retract over time. I also believe that by collaborating with unions to enter into voluntary efforts at reducing these obligations, we could significantly alleviate the city's burdens for future payments. Unions are an integral part of the city's fiscal health and I strongly believe if they were made a collaborative partner in coming up with solutions to these mandatory obligations, we could come up with some real and lasting long term solutions.

14. What would you propose to increase the transparency of the Board of Elections in the City of New York's operations and accountability to the city and its voters?

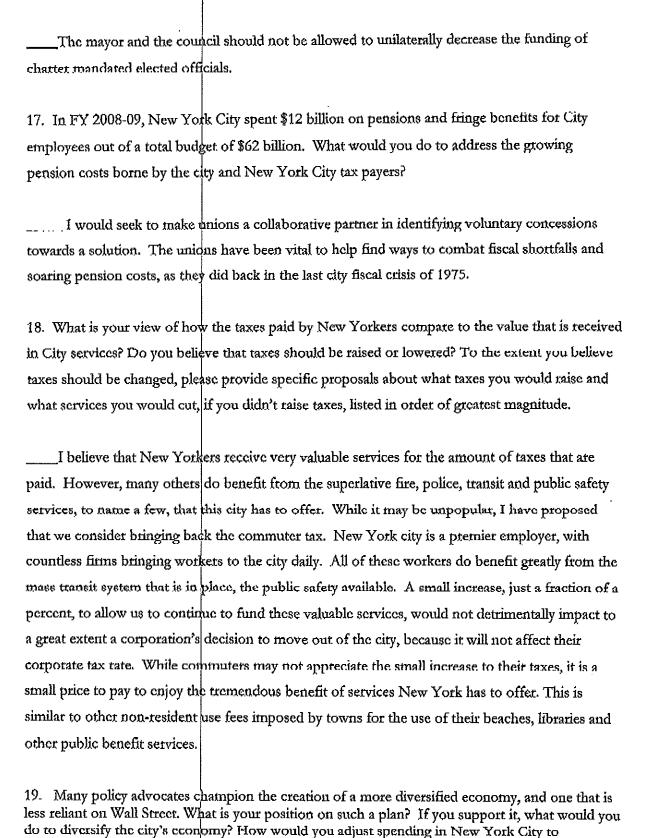

Create objective evaluation criteria to determine eligibility of consultants under consideration for DOE contracts. For instance, how do we know that a consultant has put forth the most competitive bid if we do not know the length of time the consultant has done business in the particular industry, the level of experience offered, the type of clients served in the past, the reputation of the consultant from trade and other professional associations that exist in that field, the composition of workers in the consultant's business in terms of ethnicity, gender, level of professional expertise, etc. Such criteria MUST be in place under a system where the Mayor retains sole control over the DOE and has the discretion to award no-bid contracts. With objective evaluation of criteria, the opportunities for patronage and nepotism is diminished because a consultant must objectively be eligible for consideration. This would go a long way towards transparency. Transparency just allows the public to obtain information on what has taken place, what has been awarded. My proposal goes farther to allow the public to see for themselves objectively if the award was objectively reasonable and make the public more of a 15. What would you propose to further enhance transparency regarding the relationships between elected officials, their families, and nonprofits that receive funding from New York City?

stakeholder in the system.

First there needs to be continued public disclosure. Elected officials should not directly or indirectly benefit from funding that is received from the City or State governments. The only way to do this is by strengthening financial disclosure forms and make them easily available to New Yorkers via the internet.

16. What would you propose to ensure that charter mandated elected offices receive equitable budget allocations?

accommodate the anticipated reduction in tax revenue as the tax base shifts to lower paying jobs?

We should absolutely diversity our reliance on Wall Street as the greatest source of jobs and tax dollars. If we have learned anything it's that one industry should not serve as the sole driving engine of any economy. The city must take steps to reconcile the fact that its past reliance on the investment sector for job growth has come at some expense to traditional "blue collar" jobs and also to a smaller extent "green" jobs. Wall Street is a voracious user of raw materials like paper and electricity. As we diversity the city's economy we must be sensitive to the fact that job growth must mean growth that not only is sustainable, but offers real wages. Too many jobs are being created in the service sector where workers find it hard to make a livable wage. Some attention must be paid to how the city helps create "incubators" for small businesses, which not only contribute to the vitality of the city's economy, but most often are a source of stable, long term jobs for the economy. I would seek to invest in "green" friendly jobs by retrofitting existing jobs. For instance, an electrician could enhance their credentials by becoming more proficient on energy efficient ways to wire a building. Or an office administrator could include as a component of their jobs ways to reduce the use of natural resources at work. Finally, we should investigate how jobs can become more "portable"meaning that workers can transfer existing skills to new career paths in the event of a more turbulent job market. I believe these are ideas that are worth exploration as we seek to find innovative ways to accommodate the city's shifting tax base.
